Enduring gift

Thinking flowers this Valentine's Day (yes, it's on February 14)? Why not a flower that will last. Annabel Trends has added this cute little accessory to its range. The Posies, made from felt, are not only eye-catching but are versatile too. The dual clip means it can be used as a brooch, hair clip, bag clip, or any other decorative piece. Available in a range of colours, the Posies ($5.95) are available from gift and homewares stores. Visit www.annabeltrends.com or phone (07) 5593 4755 for stockists.

Doggie delights

Magnificent muffins, after dinner mints, salivating sushi snacks. Sounds great, until you realise the recipes include such things as chopped liver, activated charcoal and minced rabbit. This is no ordinary cookbook, rather it's one for pampered pooches. Mutt Munchies, by Stephanie Mehanna, includes 35 "easy to make" dog treats, aimed at improving your pup's health and happiness. The book ($12.99, Spruce) is sure to be hit with any hound (or hound lover).

Win tickets

Shaw Vineyard Estate at Flint in the Vines will be transformed into the streets of Verona on February 27, with Shakespeare in the Vines. Romeo and Juliet will be performed by Essential Theatre. Packages are available for dining and/or the show. Tickets (from $45) are available at www.flintinthevines.net.au. Show starts at 6pm. Relax has two tickets to the show to give away. Email relax@canberratimes.com.au by 5pm Friday and tell us why you'd like to see Shakespeare in the Vines.
